UKRAINE

Ukraine is a former Soviet Union country located in Central Europe with varying regions and climates. Americans have recently fallen in love with Ukraine’s adoption system in which you personally select your child after meeting and interacting with the children and their peer group. Ukraine has become one of the most popular countries participating in international adoptions and was the seventh-largest country for intercountry adoptions to the United States in 2007. A New Arrival works with many regions of Ukraine where you choose your child from. The majority of children in Ukraine are available for adoption due to the lack of income in the birth family, poverty, neglect or sometimes even abuse.

Requirements

Ukraine limits adoptions to married couples who are at least 21 years of age. There no more than 45 years age difference between the child and prospective adoptive parent child. Both parents must travel to Ukraine to identify and adopt their child. Travel to Ukraine can usually be done in one trip with your stay in country lasting approximately 30-60 days. This will vary on region and if the judge waves the waiting period.

Children Available for Adoption

The children waiting for adoption in Ukraine is five years of age up to 14 years old. The children are mostly Caucasian of Ukrainian and Russian decent with the most common traits being brown hair & green eyes, blonde hair & blue eyes. There are a few Gypsy children available, as well as bi-racial children (Caucasian/Asian, Caucasian/Black). If you would like to adopt more than 1 child the children must be related siblings or you may adopt two non related children. Families looking for younger female children will have fewer choices for adoption. By law no child referrals are given prior to the arrival of the adoptive parents.
Health of the Children
The children available for adoption are usually living in orphanages in Ukraine. The health of the children available varies widely. Some children are healthy, some have minor correctable health problems and some have severe health issues. Severe health issues can range from cerebral palsy, MS or HIV.

Time Frame
The adoption process usually takes between nine and 14 months to complete.

Travel Accommodation Information
On trip to Ukraine with a stay of 4-12 weeks is required. Both parents are required to travel; however, one parent may leave early after the court process is completed. This process is usually 2 – 4 weeks into your trip. Travel usually occurs from five to seven months after you get your dossier completed. The Ukraine facilitator makes the in country living and travel arrangement.
